Dan Ogale Appointed Client Service Manager at Crawford & Company (Canada) Inc.

TORONTO (February 4, 2015) – Pat Van Bakel, president and chief executive officer, Crawford & Company (Canada) Inc., is pleased to announce the addition of Dan Ogale to the position of client service manager in the Human Risk division. Reporting to Noel Dunne, assistant vice president inside claims, National Claims Management Centre, Ogale will be responsible for maintaining existing business relationships and expanding the business portfolio Crawford’s Canada operations in the areas of workers compensation case management, short-term and long-term disability, and health and safety.

In recent months Crawford Canada has hired a number of highly-qualified professionals, and supported the strategic placement and advancement of its internal staff. Ogale’s appointment is a reflection of its commitment to furthering the careers of its talented professionals.

Ogale has worked for Crawford in various roles throughout the years; most recently, he was a consultant overseeing the management and implementation of workers compensation and third party administration programs. With more than 30 years of experience, Ogale is a seasoned insurance and risk management professional, and he has held executive and management positions in claims and risk management for private organizations in the global transportation and storage industry, as well as with insurance carriers.

“Dan has held positions with the Company both in the United States and Canada,” said Van Bakel. “He is a valued member of our team who has demonstrated success in effectively managing program business
